OUR DIVERSITY

Surprise Chain

80% of Foodbank's food and groceries come from opportunistic donations via the 'surprise chain'. The donations include products that are out of spec, have incorrect labelling or undeclared allergens, underweight, short coded or surplus / promo stock.

Collaborative Supply Program

In these world-leading programs, Foodbank works with manufacturers to plan production of key staple foods such as sausages, pasta and sauces. Supply chain partners have the opportunity to support and share the load across manufacturers, packaging, transport partners and raw ingredient partners.

School Breakfast Program

Foodbank supports programs that give students the opportunity to eat a wholesome, nutritious breakfast on a regular basis, setting students up to concentrate, learn and be at their best. Supported by various state government grants and national donors, Foodbank continues to explore new avenues to fuel these programs and reduce the number of schools on the wait list.

Disaster Relief

Foodbank is the only food relief organisation in Australia to play a role in times of emergency and natural disasters such as fires, floods and cyclones. Foodbank provides essential supplies to support the work of first responders and emergency services as well as giving ongoing assistance to affected communities during the months and years it takes to recover.

Food Program

As businesses become more efficient and produce less waste, Foodbank's opportunity to source key staples from a 'surprise chain' becomes limited. Demand for key staples remain at an all-time high requiring Foodbank to investigate the avenue of purchasing products to fill the gap. Opportunities exist to for organisations to provide key staples FOC or at cost price for purchase.

Agriculture Program

All Australians should have access to protein, fresh fruit and vegetables. Foodbank works with growers and producers to ensure a variety of fresh product is distributed nationwide, which represents over 30% of the organisation. Foodbank is currently expanding its national programs to include a wide variety of fruit and vegetable partners.
